A Powder Coated Tough Finish on All Your Metal Parts

All-Color Powder Coating has been powder coating metal substrates since 1996. With two state-of-the-art, conveyorized powder coating lines and two batch systems, we are able to satisfy all of your powder coating needs. Each line has a multiple stage cleaning and pre-treatment process utilizing R.O. water, to ensure your parts are clean and properly prepared for coating. The powder is applied in a separate environmentally controlled room giving us the ability to obtain the optimum coating thickness and maintain consistency from order to order.

Our batch systems allow us to powder coat parts that are too large or awkward to run on a conveyorized powder application line. The batch systems can accommodate parts up to 20 feet long.

Not only does All-Color stock a wide variety of powders from prominent manufacturers, but we can also custom order powders to meet your specific requirements. The options available in powders today are nearly unlimited. Along with infinite colors, you can choose from a number of textures and glosses to enhance your product.

At All-Color Powder Coating, we work with our customers from the prototyping stage through production in order to provide them with a high quality powder coated part that is cost effective. Our wide range of coating equipment and experienced staff allows us to provide a fast turnaround on both small and high volume jobs.

Quality Certifications

All-Color Powder Coating is both PCI 3000 and Axalta Star CoaterSM Certified. To maintain these certifications, All-Color is subjected to an extensive evaluation of its business practices, process elements, equipment capabilities, employee competencies and quality control capabilities through periodic on-site audits conducted by each of these organizations.

Since September 2010, All-Color Powder Coating has been part of an elite group of custom powder coaters who have obtained PCI 3000 certification. The ultimate goal of the Powder Coating Institute is to improve and enhance the powder coating process within the powder coating industry.

In May 2011, All-Color Powder Coating obtained Axalta's Star CoaterSM Certification through Axalta Coating Systems. Axalta understands the demands on the custom powder coater in today's marketplace. The Star Coater program was established in an effort to assist the custom coater in meeting current trends with a continuous improvement mentality.

These certifications indicate to our customers that they will consistently receive a high quality powder coated product with a high level of customer satisfaction. Having these certifications differentiates us from our competition and shows our devotion to quality and customer service excellence within our industry.

All-Color Powder Coating takes pride in being a leader in the powder coating industry. We are continually exploring new developments in order to offer the most extensive array of services to our customers.
